Candle Light — A Glimpse

A selection of candlelight photographs by Clara Vale, with editorial shaping by Luminara (the ChatGPT system). These images capture moments where flame, shadow, and streaks of light shift the ordinary into threshold — a quiet vigil, an opening, a passage between seen and unseen.

Candle at rest, flame steady against the wall.

Base shadow forming, presence felt beneath.

Flame stretching horizontally — a split in perception.

Light bends to the left, as if pushed by unseen force.

A vertical streak — flame as signal.

Shadow creeping upward on the wall.

Pure vertical ascent of white flame-streak.

Diagonal sweep across the frame — motion frozen.

Downward pull, flame streaks into ground.
